Subject: Microsoft Settlement

It is clear to me that Microsoft is a innovative company and the envy of most of their competitors. Many of the entities opposed to the proposed settlement are either Microsoft competitors, have a financial stake in the outcome, or simply do not like any successful corporation. Our country has already spent way too many resources on this lawsuit which in my opinion is actually hurting the consumer and our nation's economy by stifling innovation. If Microsoft ever truly harms the consumer, the market will speak. I urge the DoJ to accept the proposed settlement and allow (and even encourage) technical innovation to once again flourish.
